

DISPUTE MANAGEMENT AND RESOLUTION

Most businesses find themselves engaged in disputes from time to time.

Protecting your commercial interests is part of running a successful business but handling disputes properly and commercially is important so that you minimise any adverse impact on your organisation, reputation or cash flow.

We specialise in High Court and County Court proceedings and will present or defend your position proactively, vigorously and commercially. We have conducted cases to the Court of Appeal and the House of Lords.

Our expertise extends to all business disputes including those relating to:

Recruitment Businesses

- Commercial contracts
- Supply of goods and services
- Theft of confidential or commercial information
- Injunctions
- Partnerships
- Directors and/or shareholders including minority shareholder rights
- Negligence including professional negligence of solicitors, accountants, architects and surveyors
- Product liability
- Property
- Industrial accidents, illness, stress at work
- Intellectual property (patents, designs, copyright, trade marks)
- Passing-off i.e. where a competitor seeks to take advantage of your goodwill and reputation
- Building and construction

Our aim is to achieve the most commercial, advantageous and efficient outcome for your business whether by robust and resourceful negotiation or by powerful and proactive conduct of court proceedings. Our objective at all times is to minimise the disruption to your business.

Our team includes qualified advocates which means we are able to conduct litigation from start to finish with first rate in house advocacy capability. When cases require input from specialist barristers, we have excellent, longstanding relations with top barristers in order to provide “a legal team” approach where needed.

Additionally, we advise our clients on risk management so as to prevent disputes arising in the first place.
